Down in the burrow,
WAY UNDER GROUND,
twelve little bunnies
lived safe and sound.

Jilly, Jonga, Jabu, Jane,
Willy, Walli, Wanda and Wayne,
Filly, Folly, Fundi and Flops,
all ate together with Mama and Pops.

The youngest was Fundi,
who just loved to read.
The SMARTEST by far –
on that they agreed.

Happily they played,
there was LAUGHTER AND FUN,
but then something changed
in the late summer sun.

The ground became dry,
the rains did not come,
their carrots and lettuce

LAY PARCHED IN THE SUN.

Twelve hungry bunnies were starting to moan.

The hot sun had SPOILED
all the food they had grown.

'OH DEAR,' cried Jabu,
'there's nothing to eat!'

'Mama you PROMISED,
where is our treat?'

Then Fundi said 'WAIT,
I remember Pops found ...

... a seed and he planted it
DEEP in the ground.'

'Let's go tomorrow,
to see what has grown.
Perhaps WE CAN EAT
from the seed he has sown.'
