In the bamboo bear forest,
lived a family of panda bears.
They sat, they ate, THEY PLAYED AND LAUGHED,
just like they had for years.

They climbed the precious bamboo trees.
They hid and had such fun.
They were happy in their forest home,
except for the LONELY ONE.

His name was Pula Panda,
he appeared all FRONT TO BACK,
he had black fur where the white should be
and white fur in the black.

He was born a little different,
but he knew DEEP DOWN inside,

he was just like all the others,
and should feel WELCOME in the tribe.

He always helped where he could,
WAS KIND AND SO POLITE,

but they never tried to include him.
SOMETHING WAS NOT RIGHT.

And then one day they said to him,
'you shouldn't hang about,
we simply do not have space here,
for a bear BORN INSIDE OUT!'

Poor Pula's heart was really hurt,
but he was BRAVE and he was STRONG.
He wanted to find a place to live,
where he felt he could belong.
